To Whom It May Concern:

Tryon Palace recently used Tim as Levram the Great for our Candlelight tours during the holiday season. He was a wonderful addition to our night, fitting in well with the rest of our 18th century holiday.

Tim's show was interactive with the audience and presented in a fun and professional way. Families in attendance loved him, since he works well with children, but kids of all ages will enjoy his tricks and antics. After the night was over, staff overheard many happy comments about Levram and his dove as guests were heading to their cars and we received many compliments about him from locals over the following days. He certainly made an impression!

This is no small thing, since 18th century period performers are hard to find and quality productions are even more so. Tim and his company are quick and professional, which makes working with them all the more enjoyable. We would happily recommend Tim to anyone who asks and we certainly hope to use him again at our historic site in the future.
